IMAD: Introduction to Modern Application Development

This is to inform you regarding the free-online 5-week course IMAD: "Introduction to Modern Application Development", that is being jointly offered by IIT Madras (NPTEL) & Hasura. See imad.tech for registration and for further details about the course.

This course is aimed specially at college students -- to bridge the gap between what they learn in college and what is expected of them in the highly demanding tech industry. The course begins on Monday, 5th September, which is also the LAST day to register.

1. This is a very hands-on and practical course! Students will be building a web-application as they learn the basic concepts behind building an "app" (application).

2. There are over 20 companies including Mastercard, Swiggy, HackerEarth, Furlenco who will offer interview opportunities to students who complete the course and do well! The full list of internship companies can be viewed here: http://www.imad.tech/#internships

3. On writing the official final exam, students are eligible for a certificate from IIT Madras.

4. Completing the course also gives students the opportunity (and credits) to build apps using Hasura & host it on Digital Ocean, with an exclusive joint-offering which will be announced shortly.
